

Professor Dr. Sven Gard

60th birthday

(November 3, 1965)

In recognition of the contributions that he has made in the fields of basic and applied virology and as a token of appreciation and admiration, several of his scientific friends and colleagues have thought it appropriate to commemorate this occasion with a special anniversary volume dealing with various aspects of his field. This initiative found the cordial approval of the coeditors of the Archiv who are so deeply obliged to Dr. Gard for his inestimable collaboration.

This volume is hereby dedicated to Professor S v e n G a r d whose outstanding qualities as a teacher, editor and scientist mean so much for the progress of modern virology.
