Dr. Carl G. Harford
Department of Internal Medicine
Barnes Hospital

Dear Carl:

About Dr. David R. Ginder, I can only say the nicest things. I worked with him in Tokyo during the summer of 1946, and he impressed me as a very conscientious, industrious and intelligent worker. Several of us tried to get him into a virus laboratory immediately upon his return to the States, but he wanted very much to get more experience in internal medicine and so has spent the last two years in different places acquiring this experience. I should think that he would make a very excellent addition to any department. Personally, I think he deserves more than a research fellowship at his stage of development.

We have been working here on a number of things, but chicken pox is not among them. Harry Feldman has had a crack at it once or twice but got nowhere.

With kindest regards to your family and yourself,

Sincerely yours,

Albert B. Sabin, M. D.
