Dear Dr. Sabin:

A mutual acquaintance, Dr. Allan M. McKelvie, recently mailed me a copy of the editorial by Bob Greene in the Dallas Morning News. I felt Mr. Greene's suggestion was a very thoughtful thing to do. That is, express to you the gratitude of so many over the years who have been able to dismiss polio as a dreadedcrippler in childhood. I consider it one of the great honors since coming to Georgetown that I had the opportunity to meet you personally and get to know you in a short period of time. Oscar Mann and I frequently discuss your situation and I remain encouraged that there is some progress to date.

I know I speak not only for the Department of Medicine, but the entire Medical Center in wishing you a continued recovery. May the New Year bring to you the vigor of both spirit and body which you have shared with so many over the years. My very best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Charles E. Rackley, M.D.
Professor and Chairman
Department of Medicine
