Dear Doctor Sabin:

Doctor Topping has referred to me your request for a summarizing statement on the conclusions that we feel we can draw from our studies on the association of injections with poliomyelitis. Since you made this request and probably since he passed it on to me, the February issue of the Journal of the American Public Health Association has appeared and is undoubtedly available to you. Our paper on this subject appears in that issue and summarizes better than I can in a letter our best judgment as to the significance of our data. As you might suppose, the discussion and summary present our point of view in abbreviated form. I assume that the Journal is already in your hands but enclose a copy of the galley proof in the event that you have trouble locating it. The galley proof includes everything except the four charts.

I look forward to seeing you in Washington and trying to sweat out some consolidated opinion as to what the administrative stand should be.

Sincerely yours,

Robert F. Korns, M.D.
Director
Bureau of Epidemiology and Communicable Disease Control

P.S. I am also enclosing copies of the form letters sent to all physicians in Upstate New York concerning our recommendation that elective injections be postponed during the poliomyelitis season.
