Dear Dr. Sabin:

The nuclear test ban treaty marks an encouraging step toward better understanding between the USA and the USSR. Much work remains to be done, as you undoubtedly realize, and as was made clear in a series of five articles on American military policies in the Times of London (England) last week.

The third installment of the Times series, a copy of which is enclosed, describes the attitude of the Pentagon as "militant chauvinism." This third article also comments on the "aggressive anti-communism which runs through the whole fabric of American life."

I should appreciate your views.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Albert B. Sabin
