Dear Dr. Sabin:

When my letter about the Advisory Board meeting went out, I was not certain about the date of your departure for Rehovot. However, Dr. Gennis and I would like to make the following suggestion.

We very much want you to remain as a member of the Advisory Board. We know your new tasks at the Weizmann Institute will be demanding, but we will be sending Medical Tribune to you regularly by airmail and hope that you will find time to look through it.

As time goes on, you may be traveling back and forth between Israel and the U.S., giving us an opportunity to confer with you occasionally in New York. Also, since Medical Tribune is now established as an international network of papers, we don't think that the national boundary is a criterion of eligibility for the Advisory Board!

In any event, you have our warmest good wishes in your important new post; we shall keep a sharp eye on the Weizmann Institute for forthcoming developments.

Sincerely yours,

Frederick Silber
Managing Editor