Professor Edith A. Warner
Head, Textiles and Clothing
School of Home Economics
305 Dyer Hall
University of Cincinnati

Dear Professor Warner:

Thank you for your note regarding your policies with respect to your students' assignments related to space clothing. I am certainly more than willing to help where I can, although I have no expertise whatever in the textile field.

Although it is not possible to act as the NASA-officer in residence or a replacement for normal library research, I am certainly willing to meet with your students at any time to answer specific questions that they are unable to answer from their normal sources.

Should you not have the contacts in industry or government with regard to obtaining any reference material you and your students might need, I'd be very glad to see if I could help in establishing them.

Sincerely,

Neil A. Armstrong
Professor of Aerospace Engineering
