

November 17, 1972

Dr. John P. Pauls
Department of Russian Language and Literature
639 Pharmacy
University of Cincinnati

Dear Dr. Pauls:

I know you dropped me a note before the beginning of the fall quarter, but somehow I misplaced it.

I had decided to audit the elementary Russian course, but after finding out it was full, decided to wait until a later time.

I very much appreciated the donation of your time in my behalf. I cannot, however, in good conscience, permit you to consume your busy schedule in that manner.

I still intend to obtain a basic understanding of the Russian language: I hope there will be an opening in your class next year.

Sincerely,

Neil A. Armstrong
Professor of
Aerospace Engineering

NAA/rb