Dear Dr. Sabin:

I am writing an article for The Ladies Home Journal on the possible role of viruses in human cancer, and on work toward the development of a cancer vaccine.

I have read that you are now working in this area, and would be most interested in seeing any papers which you or your colleagues have done as well as any talks which you may have given on the subject in recent years.

I am sure, too, that readers would be interested in any comments you might care to make on the general progress being made toward discovering human-cancer viruses and toward developing an effective immunization agent.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Yours very truly,
