Dear Doctor Sabin:

I have under my care at the present time a 50-year-old woman who suffered from meningo-encephalitis in July, 1959, and who since then has developed classical paralysis agitans. Coxsackie virus has been isolated from her stools.

I should appreciate greatly any information you may have on previous descriptions of such an association with Parkinsonism as an early complication.

I shall also much appreciate your mailing me a reprint of your paper on Echo Type 9 virus disease, J. D's; Child.; 96: 197-219, 1958 at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

John H. Walters, M.D.
